

Switch Kit

Thank you for choosing Midwest Heritage! Switching banks might seem like a daunting task, but we're here to help the switch be as smooth and hassle-free as possible. This guide will walk you through the steps to switch from your current bank to Midwest Heritage.

Step-by-Step Process

We will walk through each step to help you with an easy transition to Midwest Heritage.

Step 1: Open a New Account

After you have done the research for the account that fits your financial needs, it's time to open a new account. This can be done in one of our branches or online. Don't forget to sign up for eStatements and explore our other great online banking features including Zelle®, SavvyMoney Credit Score and Card Controls.

Step 2: Discontinue the Use of Old Account

Now that you have your new account, it is time to activate your debit card and stop using your previous account. This will allow time for any outstanding checks, automatic deposits and payments to successfully be redirected to your new account. For your safety, destroy any ATM, check cards, unused checks or deposit slips. If you're interested in ordering checks, now would be a good time to do so.

Step 3: Change Direct Deposit

You want to fund the account and confirm your direct deposit is entering your new account before changing any automatic withdrawals to the new account. This will help avoid over-drafting your account. On the next page, we listed the information you will need to have readily available for your employer(s) to change your direct deposit.

Change Direct Deposit

Please accept this as a notification that I have established a new checking account. Currently, you are authorized to initiate direct deposit to my existing account, which I am closing

I am authorizing you to establish an automatic deposit to my new bank account with Midwest Heritage. I agree that the ACH transactions I authorize comply with all applicable laws. This authorization will remain in full force and effect until I notify you that I wish to revoke this authorization. I've listed the relevant account information below.

Step 4: Track & Organize Current Finances

Create a list of all your current accounts, payments, automatic transfers and recurring bill payments so you have everything to transfer to your new bank account. We've created a list of common items people will need to transfer on the next page.

Common Accounts to Switch

List all automatic payments and make sure to switch them to your new Midwest Heritage routing and account number. This page has common deposit accounts and the next has common automatic payments to switch.

Some companies require written notice. See next page for "Automatic Payment Change" form.

Step 6: Close Previous Account

Once you've ensured all checks, automatic payments, and direct deposit have been deducted or credited to your new Midwest Heritage account, close your old account. You can send written notice with the "Account Closing Notice" form and fill out any documentation your former bank may require.

Congrats, you've officially made the switch. Now, you can use your Midwest Heritage account without worrying if all your accounts have smoothly been transferred. Welcome to Midwest Heritage, where we help you balance it all.
